Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on May 6, 2002 has been entered.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Applicant should amend the specification to include the continuing data. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 83-86 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The language set forth in claim 83 is confusing. Part a sets forth that the position sensor is responsive to magnetic fields for generating signals, part b sets forth sensing the position of the catheter distal end using magnetic fields and the signals generated by the position sensor. It is unclear as to whether these are two different fields that are used to determine position.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3737

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 69-72, 74-81, 83-86 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Martinelli et al ('731) in view of Acker et al. Martinelli et al disclose a medical system including a catheter 20 having a distal portion 24 for applying laser energy for ablation, an ECG monitor, and position sensing means for sensing the position of the catheter distal end (see columns 7-10). One means used by Martinelli et al is magnetic means for determining the orientation of the catheter tip. Ultrasound means are used to determine tip position. Acker et al disclose the use of magnetic fields to determine both the position and orientation of a probe tip. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to have modified Martinelli et al such that magnetic fields are used to determine both position and orientation as disclosed by Acker et al. Such a modification merely involves the substitution of one known means for determining position for another and reduces the type of system parts by using the same means to perform two functions (both the function of determining position as well as orientation).

Claim 82 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Martinelli et al in view of Acker et al as applied to claim 70 above, and further in view of Crowley ('432). Crowley discloses a catheter for image and ablation in the heart that includes a means for steering the catheter to the desired location within the body. It is a well known in the art that positioning a catheter within the heart of a patient requires controlling the catheter by bending or rotating the tip of the catheter. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to have further modified Martinelli et al such that it includes a means for steering the catheter within the body in order to ensure safe and accurate positioning of the catheter as is well known in the art and taught by Crowley.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 69-72, 74-86 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
